Available for Primary & Secondary

We are pleased to introduce our new digital workshops for schools: Museum Live Link. Book in for a virtual visit from a member of our friendly and knowledgeable learning team who will lead topic-based activities for your class via digital platform.

What's included?

Each live link session will be approximately 45 minutes in length and includes a short presentation, topic activities, and a chance for questions from the class.

We'll deliver a resource box to your school in advance of the session which contains replica objects, information for teachers and resources for an optional extension activity. The contents can be used in the class during and after the visit. We can deliver live links on Microsoft teams or Glow.

Choose from one of our most popular topics; Romans, Tartan & Tweed, WWII, Victorians, and When Gran Was A Girl. We can also offer WWI and Industrial Revolution related topics for secondary classes up to national 5 level.

Please get in touch to discuss your requirements if you'd like an alternative topic or delivery platform and we'll do our best to accommodate your needs.

Loan Boxes

These boxes contain a mixture of objects, photographs and information on themed topics. They can be used from classroom displays and teaching.

They are great for drawing, photography and discussion too. For more information or to borrow a box please call 01236 638460. Boxes cost £55 for an academic term or £25 for four weeks with fees for late return at £5 per day.

Bookings must be made in advance for the collection and return of boxes from either Summerlee Museum, Coatbridge or North Lanarkshire Heritage Centre, Motherwell.

Alternatively, boxes can be used in the museums free of charge by visiting groups. Please call and reserve your box in advance of your visit.

In this new workshop pupils will use museum objects and archive materials to understand how the First World War impacted life at home in Lanarkshire. Pupils will research primary sources to discover how people in Lanarkshire were affected by the war, in their home and work life, to develop an understanding of the lasting social changes brought by the war. SOC 3-06b / SOC 4-06b

JOHN STEWART: LANARKSHIRE'S WAR POET

Third / Fourth level S1-4 £54 outreach / £50 at Summerlee / 45 mins

Funding from the Heritage Lottery Fund has enabled museum staff to uncover the story of John Stewart, a local teacher who enlisted in the Border Regiment for the First World War. John was awarded the Military Cross for bravery and published a book of poetry, before being tragically killed in battle in 1918. This workshop covers his life and poetry and can be delivered in school during a standard lesson, or as an addition to our Lanarkshire's Great War workshop at Summerlee.

AND ALSO...

There are many other displays and areas of the 22-acre site for you to enjoy, including a working tramway, The Vulcan: Scotland's first iron boat, outdoor displays of engineering and woodworking, part of the Monkland canal, numerous locomotives, and nature walks. Café, toilets and a shop are also available onsite. To book a free visit including mine tours, please call 01236 638460.

Can't come to the museum? We can bring the museum to you virtually.

Contact a member of the team on 01236 638460 to ask about our new digital workshops. Using primary and secondary sources from the museum collection, we can join your class digitally to talk to about several topics at third/fourth level and National 5. Topics include the industrial revolution, extension of the franchise, suffrage and safety.
